

EECS 368

Programming Language Paradigms

Dr. Andy Gill

University of Kansas

January 18, 2017

Class Information

How to find me

Office: 2024 Eaton Hall / 252 Nichols Hall

Web: <http://people.eecs.ku.edu/~andygill>

Phone: 4-8817 / 4-4712

Email: andygill@ku.edu

Office Hours: 2:00-4:00 Wed in Eaton, or by appointment.

About the Class

Time: 10:00-10:50 MWF

Class Web: <https://piazza.com/ku/spring2017/eecs368/home>

Prerequisites: EECS 268 is a hard prerequisite for this course.

Who is Andy Gill?

- Researcher in the field of programming languages
- Ph.D. from Glasgow University
- Spent 12 years in industry as a compiler engineer
 - Worked on a Java compiler, a C++ compiler, and a Haskell compiler
 - Almost accepted a job working on Firefox's JavaScript compiler
 - Co-founded a technology startup in Portland, OR
 - Visiting Professor at Facebook
- 9th year as a professor at KU
- Want to share my research interest: programming languages

- Please ask questions!
- No laptops or phones

No Class Texts

- Hutton, Programming in Haskell, Cambridge University Press, 2007. ISBN: 0521692695
- Haverbeke, Eloquent JavaScript, ISBN: 1-59327-2820-0
- Many other resources on class website.